

PROFESSIONAL STRIDES

2022-2023

IMMUNITY IS COMMUNITY Community Health Initiative

A major collaboration between the Meadville Rotary AM Club, Meadville Medical Center, Crawford Health Improvement Coalition (CHIC), Allegheny College, and other local organizations, this is a one-year positive health and community-building initiative, co-facilitated by Dr. Becky Dawson (Biology/Global Health) and myself.

COMMUNITY
IMMUNITY

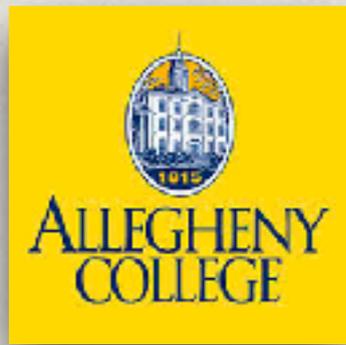

SUMMER 2022 - PRESENT

PLACE-BRANDING WITH REGIONAL TOURISM BOARDS

In summer 2022, two Allegheny first-year students conducted an overview of regional environmental assets that can drive eco-tourism and economic growth in north-western Pennsylvania. Mentored by me, Ray Colabawalla '25 and Hunter Goerman '25 collaborated on this research that is being done in partnership with the Pennsylvania Environmental Council and other regional tourism boards.

Hear Ray and Hunter discuss “The Glacier’s Edge and Ecotourism” project on the latest episode of the Gator Tails podcast on Spotify, Apple Podcasts, or <https://bit.ly/3RqEKkD>.

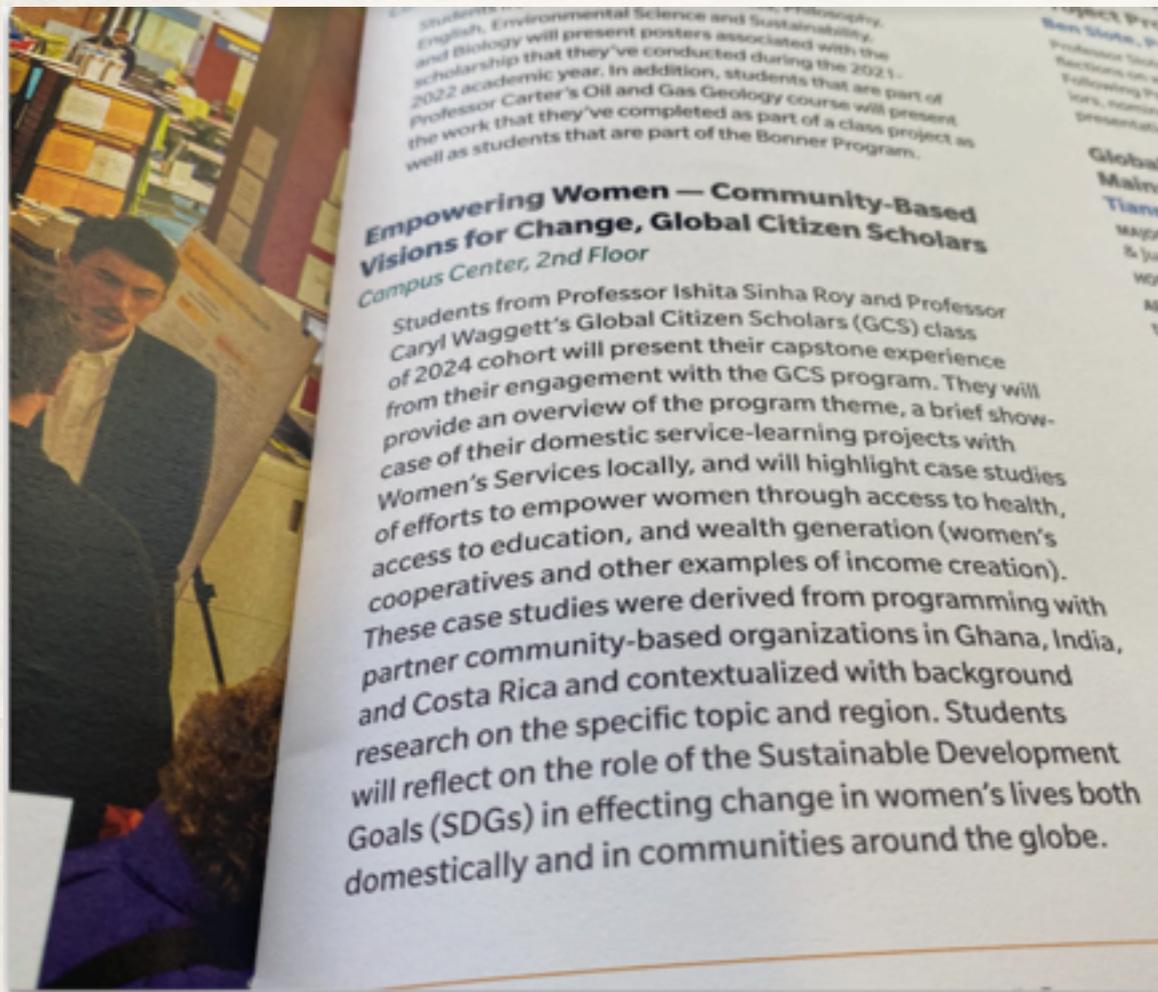

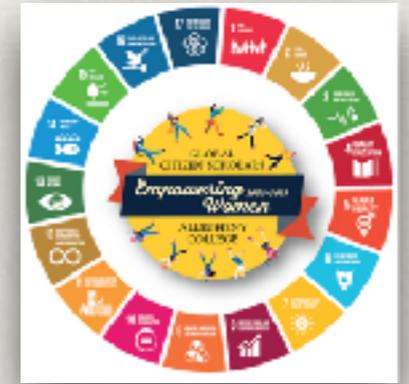

2020-2022

CO-FACULTY LEADER, GLOBAL CITIZEN SCHOLARS

"EMPOWERING WOMEN WORLDWIDE"

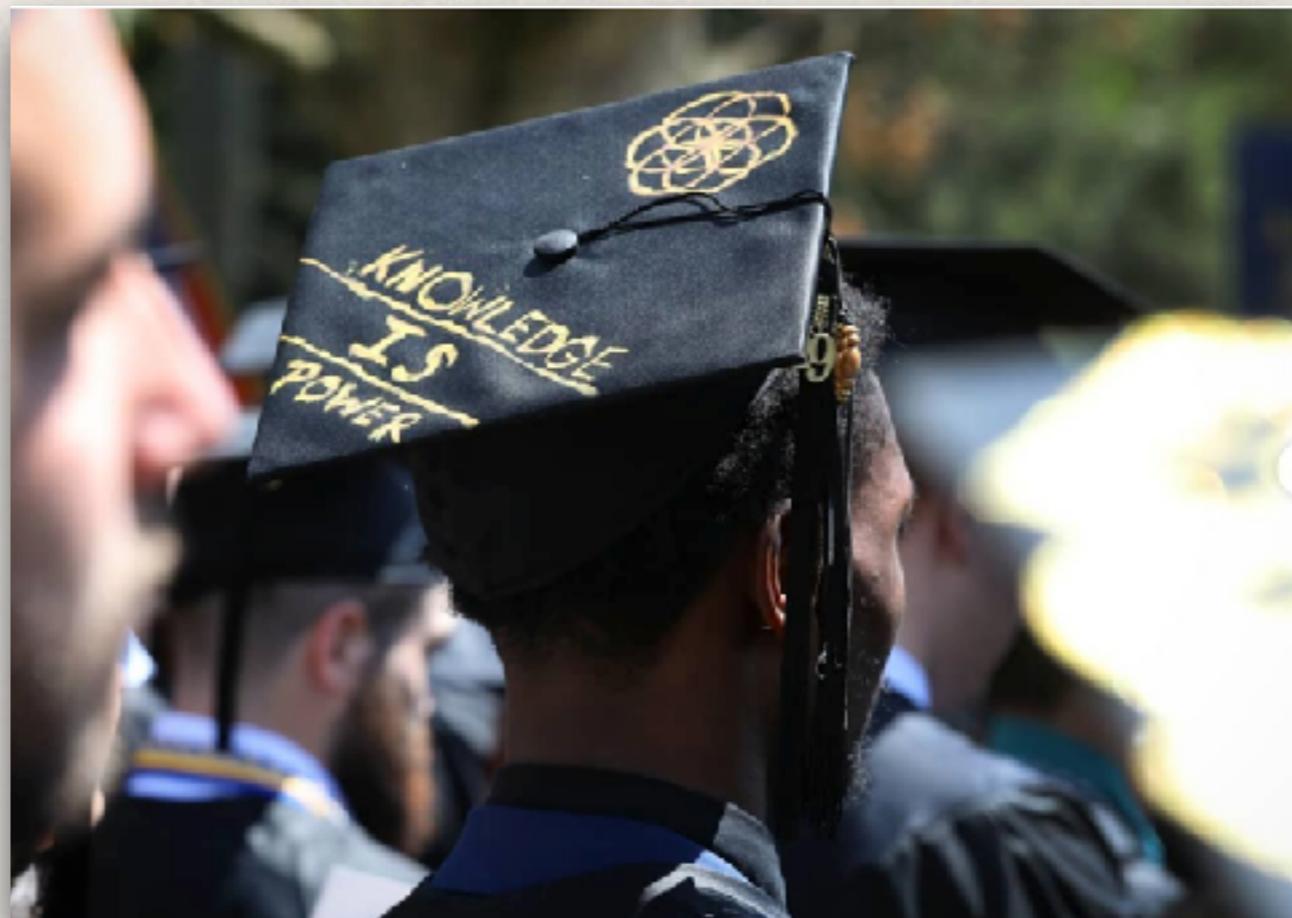

Twenty select students from the class of '24 attended seminars and completed projects on "Empowering Women Worldwide" (U.N. Sustainable Development Goal V) across five semesters. My colleague Prof. Caryl Waggett (Global Health Studies) and I taught and mentored the participants, and oversaw their collaborative capstone projects with our community partner — The Women's Services in Meadville.

INSTITUTIONAL MENTOR FOR FACULTY. ADVISOR FOR STUDENT CLUBS

- ❖ As a mentor for full-time tenure and non-tenure track educators at the college since 2013, I have the pleasure of regularly meeting with the colleagues in various mentoring groups to brainstorm about teaching, research, collaboration, and professional development.
- ❖ Current faculty advisor for the following students' organizations: the Allegheny College chapter of the Rotaract Club, the South Asian Students' Society, and the Orchesis Dance Company. In this capacity, I help students develop their leadership, programming, collaboration, and team-building skills.

SUMMER 2019

MOST RECENT

EXPERIENTIAL LEARNING SEMINAR

TO INDIA

EXL 594: "Re-staging History as Media Event" (4 credits)

Photo Credit (above): Marisol Santa Cruz

My colleague Beth Watkins (Theater) and I took a group of sixteen Allegheny College participants on a 21-day experiential study tour of northwest India to explore how history is being revised to serve a new Hindutva nationalist agenda. Read more about the 2019 India EL Seminar in this piece that appeared in Athena Abroad.

2017-2018

PROVOST'S DIVERSITY LIAISON AND FACULTY CHAIR, SUSTAINED DIALOGUES & CIVILITY INITIATIVE ON CAMPUS

-
- ❖ Organized multiple Sustained Dialogue training workshops for employees (faculty, staff, administrators) led by the Sustained Dialogue Institute.
 - ❖ Served as Chair of the SD Steering Committee, designing multiple campus-wide mixed Sustained Dialogue Circles made up of students and employees. Participants in these SD Circles dialogued about how to build a positive and inclusive campus culture.

EMPOWERING STUDENTS TO ACHIEVE THEIR POTENTIAL

- ❖ Marisol Santa Cruz ('20) is a Communication Arts major and Computer Science Minor, and a first-generation college student who came to Allegheny College all the way from California. Marisol was my summer research student in 2018. I advised Marisol as she applied for a prestigious Benjamin A. Gilman International Scholarship. The funding enabled her to participate in the 2019 India EL Seminar that I co-led with my colleague Prof. Beth Watkins.
- ❖ Bryan Quiroz ('21) is on the cusp of declaring an Economics Major and Communication Arts Minor. He is a first-generation college student and attended the same high school in California as did Marisol. Bryan worked with me to prepare his application for a Benjamin A. Gilman International Scholarship. He made the cut and was therefore able to afford the costs of the 2019 India EL Seminar that I co-led with my colleague Prof. Beth Watkins.

2015-2017

CO-PRINCIPLE INVESTIGATOR, ANDREW W. MELLON GRANT FOR INTERNATIONALIZATION

- Co-facilitated two Teaching Circles for full-time educators on how to integrate global components and perspectives into the curriculum.
- Received summer funding through the grant to internationalize the courses that I teach.
- As a member of the Mellon Internationalization Grant Steering Committee, we pushed the college to approve of faculty-staff collaborations in leading global learning study abroad seminars.

Allegheny College

Bachelor of Arts (B.A.), Spanish Language and Literature
2009 – 2013

Experience

Client Service Associate

Morgan Stanley

Feb 2017 – Present - 2 yrs 7 mos
Greater New York City Area

ESL Teacher

Juan Pablo II

Sep 2015 – Jul 2016 - 11 mos

Math Teacher

NYC Department of Education

Aug 2013 – Aug 2015 - 2 yrs 1 mo

My responsibilities included lesson planning, unit planning and creating activities for bilingual and SIFE students.

2013-2015

FACULTY STUDY-ABROAD COORDINATOR FOR THE COLLEGE

- ❖ Collaborated with the Study Away and Campus Internationalization Committee to develop Allegheny College's Comprehensive Internationalization and Study Abroad Plans.
- ❖ Partnered with the Office for International Education in reviewing and revising the Faculty handbook guidelines for faculty-led Experiential Learning Seminars abroad for academic credit.

Alicia Rivera

Spanish and Black Studies

When Alicia Rivera '13 looks back at her academic career at Allegheny, one of the experiences she will value most is her time spent studying overseas. She lived in the town of Triana, Spain, not far from Seville, during the first semester of her junior year.

"It forced me out of my comfort zone and taught me how to adapt to a new setting," says Alicia, a Spanish major. "Study Away gave me the opportunity to immerse myself in a new country, which was an amazing experience, especially in a society heading toward globalization."

The semester in Spain and an experiential learning trip to India will benefit her personally and professionally as she moves into her career, says Alicia. "Adaptation is a key element while abroad or in any new environment. I learned to adapt to my surroundings and have a positive attitude," she says.

"I am more globally aware and culturally sensitive because I learned to observe and experience a new place rather than judge and compare the differences. I learned that a place isn't better or worse than where I come from. It's simply different from what I think is normal. I learned to embrace the Spanish culture rather than criticize it."

Adaptation, creative-thinking and tolerance — these are among the goals of an Allegheny education. The College's administration sees Study Away as an integral part of that process.

As for Alicia, she says she is a more complete and confident person. "An international experience allows students to gain unique perspectives, experiences and ideas that they will bring back, not only to Allegheny but their future careers."

FACULTY-STUDENT COLLABORATION AS STARTING POINT FOR CITIZENSHIP

- ❖ I have had the honor of working with several students across various disciplines on both research and experiential learning projects during summers.
- ❖ Whether it is coursework or research outside the classroom, I try and make students see how education in then here and now is preparation for getting involved in building better communities and tomorrows.
- ❖ This is also why teaching assessments as a pen and paper exercise matter less to me than the feedback I receive from alumni three or four years after they have graduated and have begun to realize the value of a rigorous Allegheny College education.

From Academia to AmeriCorps

By Gabrielle Bradshaw, AmeriCorps VISTA Project Director

What are you doing after graduation? This has become the age-old, sometimes anxiety-producing, question for many graduating seniors as they finish up their final semesters of college. But for five Allegheny College students, the answer was easy — post-graduate service through Lake Effect Leaders AmeriCorps VISTA project.

AmeriCorps VISTA (Volunteers in Service to America) builds capacity in nonprofit organizations and communities in order to help bring individuals out of poverty. For over 50 years, AmeriCorps VISTA members have served as a catalyst for change, living and working alongside community members to meet our nation's most pressing challenges and advance local solutions.

But what led these ambitious students to sign up to serve the Meadville community? As you will see below, for most, it was their experience in academia that led them to pursue a year of anti-poverty work.

Questions asked to all five members:

1 What was your major/minor at Allegheny?

2 Did your studies at Allegheny influence you in any way to complete a year of service with AmeriCorps? If so, how?

3 What are you hoping to gain by the end of your service year, and how will that influence your career goals?

Arianna O'Connell '18
Volunteer Coordinator and Resident Empowerment VISTA serving at Crawford County Coalition on Housing Needs and Crawford County Mental Health Awareness Program (CCCHN & CHAPS)

Major: Communication Arts
Minor: Psychology

"During my time in the communication arts program, I took a number of classes on issues like globalization, inequality, and neo-liberalism — all of which deepened my need to give back to my community and my interest in helping others by building capacity. Doing research with Professor Ishita Sinha Roy in 2016 about rural politics and the presidential election allowed me to learn more about this region of the United States and was my inspiration for getting to know the Meadville community better. Additionally, the research I conducted for an independent study and my senior thesis was framed around Crawford County's political, economic, and social history. It is such a blessing to now be working with two nonprofits (CHAPS and the Crawford County Coalition on Housing Needs) whose goals are to assure that every person in Crawford County has housing and the necessary resources to live a fulfilling life.

CONNECTING ALLEGHENY COLLEGE GATORS WITH STUDENTS ABROAD THROUGH EXPERIENTIAL LEARNING STUDY ABROAD SEMINARS

Above: Reading to students in a rural classroom in Kenya

Above Left: Allegheny students on an EL Seminar to Japan interview Keio University students in Tokyo (Summer 2018)

Below Left: Students on an EL Seminar to India in 2019 spent a day with high school seniors from International Baccalaureate programs at top-notch private schools in New Delhi, India.